K.D. LANG TO PLAY BING CONCERT HALL ON MARCH 2

Other just added events include cabaret shows by Ana Gasteyer and Julian Fleisher in the Bing Studio as well modern dance duo Wang Ramirez and talks by John Waters and Alex Ross

Stanford, CA, December 1, 2017—Celebrating the 25th anniversary of her critically-acclaimed album Ingénue, k.d. lang will make a stop at Stanford’s Bing Concert as part of her upcoming national tour. The performance, scheduled for Friday, March 2, at 7:30 p.m., follows the release of a re-mastered anniversary edition of Ingénue on Nonesuch earlier this year. The multiple Grammy-winner will perform highlights from Ingénue — including the hit “Constant Craving”— along with songs from her 2004 album, Hymns of the 49th Parallel.

Stanford Live also just announced two more shows in its popular Cabaret series, presented in the Bing’s underground Studio. On January 26 and 27, former Saturday Night Live cast member Ana Gasteyer and the genre-busting singer/bandleader Julian Fleisher will alternate at 8:00 and 10:00 p.m. Gasteyer charmed audiences for six seasons on SNL, and now she displays her vocal chops and wicked wit for cabaret. Fleisher’s show, called 1975, is devoted to the proposition that this was the best year in American popular music. Both performances will feature music director and pianist Lance Horne who inaugurated the Studio Cabaret Series with Alan Cumming last season.

In addition, Stanford Live will present Alex Ross — the MacArthur Foundation “genius” award-winning New Yorker music critic — in a free discussion on composers’ search for the American sound on February 26 in the Bing Studio. The modern dance duo Wang Ramirez, a couple on stage and off, performs Monchichi in the Bing Studio on February 28. Then on April 18, the iconic filmmaker John Waters (Hairspray, Pink Flamingos, Serial Mom) will be interviewed by SFFILM executive director Noah Cowan on the Bing stage.
Tickets for the added events go on sale December 8, following a presale period for Stanford Live members. For more information, visit live.stanford.edu or call 650-724-2464.
